Homework Desiderata

Global Considerations:
- Staple your homework (you should submit a single stapled packet every time you submit homework.)
- Write your name on your paper.
- Turn in your homework on or before the due date (LATE HOMEWORK WILL NOT BE ACCEPTED!)
- Write legibly.

Problem-specific considerations:
- Making any sort of reasonable attempt on the graded problems will net you half credit. Be advised, however, that making a “reasonable” effort means more than just copying the answer out of the back of the book.
- In principle, the remaining half credit is based on whether or not you got the problem right. In this context, “right” means not just that the final response is correct, but that you clearly and completely explain how you arrived at that response. Incomplete or opaque explanations will lose points.
- Graphs should be clearly labeled.
- Calculations should flow in some logical order.
- Qualitative conclusions should be written either in complete sentences or in sentence fragments that comprise some intelligible pastiche.
- Sly jokes insider jokes should be funny.
- Etc...?
